Romulus demonstrates culture

Don Reynolds fashions a simple piece of pottery while scores of visitors watched and toured the Artrain in Romulus last week. "It is entirely fitting that this is the first stop of the Michigan sesquicentennial state tour for Artrain. Because two years ago, we celebrated our 150 birthday," said Mayor Beverly McAnally. ## Gas station attendant killed

Romulus police are seeking a motive in the shooting death of a gas station attendant at the corner of Middlebelt and Goddard roads Monday night.

Thomas Warren McEwen, 17, of Cherry Street in Romulus was pronounced dead on arrival at 9:23 p.m. at Heritage Hospital in Taylor, according to Romulus police who were notified by a gas station customer at 8:44 p.m.

"There doesn't appear to have been a robbery. Nor have we established a struggle or exactly what happened. Apparently, a customer entered the station and found McEwen lying on the floor. He alerted another customer on an outside pay phone who called police," said Romulus detective Ken Kraus.

Police were to obtain preliminary results from the autopsy yesterday and, "we'll go from there."

Acquaintances of McEwen describe him as "a quiet, loner type who always went out of his way to help. He was a nice guy," they said.

Acquaintances said they had only known him about three months and were unsure if he had family in the local area. They noted, "Police said there were so many fingerprints at the site, everybody is a suspect."

Enterprise students are fired-up

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Eight determined individuals have courageously returned to complete their high school education in the innovative Enterprise High program in Romulus. They won't be called drop-outs for long.

As their peers study engineering, law, medicine or vocational education elsewhere, these students are entrepreneurs in education for a different reason.

Sure, they are taught the standards of math, English and social studies. But at the same time, they earn money while learning a skill. When the semester ends, these aggressive students predict that each will return home with $100 in their pockets.

Students meet once a week in the commercial kitchen of the Romulus High School where they learn Culinary Arts from professional chef Don Halbritter.

Halbritter works with his students. "It's their business. They pay for their own supplies. Ten percent of what they earn pays the utilities. They divide the profits among themselves. It's fun," he said.

"We left school for different reasons. There could have been problems at home or maybe difficulties with a class or teacher," said John Wilhit, 21.

"I left school because I couldn't get up in the morning. Everybody here wants to learn. And best of all," noted Kristina Mohlman, 18, "you don't get detentions."

Ginny Septer, 17, said she is in the program because she needs a diploma to join the service. "Classes in this program are smaller. Teachers help you more," she said.

City officials rally against businesses at Metro airport

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Both the city of Romulus and the Romulus School District will continue their battle for monetary compensation from on-site airport businesses.

The Romulus Roman learned Monday that contrary to the resolution approved by members of the city council last week, the Romulus School District does indeed wish to continue the joint lobbying effort initiated last year.

Because the school district had not paid their $1,000 fee each month for the past six months, according to Mayor Beverly McAnally, councilmembers were concerned.

"I had a conversation with a school board member who said they had no interest at all in the airport concession bill. This is very shortsighted. The bill is ready to be introduced concurrently in the House and Senate in Michigan," said McAnally.

Councilman Barry Baumann found the revelation "shocking." "The major beneficiary of this bill is the school system. For every property tax dollar, they receive about 70 cents," he said.

"It's been a long fight. There have been arguments over what is a concession at the airport. But our main concern is who should pay taxes to the city of Romulus. It's unfortunate the school district doesn't wish to participate," said Mayor pro tem Mary Ann Banks.

Hayti closing postponed

Parents of children at Hayti school breathed a collective sigh of relief following an announcement last week that their neighborhood school would not close for at least another year.

The announcement came from School Superintendent William Bedell during the semi-monthly meeting of members of the Romulus School Board. The board room was again packed with concerned parents, teachers and students.

Parents recalled the meeting with what they described as mixed emotions, but added it was very tense. "We vented our feelings with the school board," said one parent.

Bedell told the crowd, "I've been through 37 school closings. And the bottom line is we can deliver services more efficiently in a new building. Closing the 50 year-old Hayti School building would save $200,000 in operating costs annually.

"This direct savings includes utility costs and those from the salaries of a principal, a secretary and custodians. What local residents have in their favor is that this is the only public building in that northeast corner of the city. It may be some years before that building is closed but it will eventually close.

"Romulus residents have supported one of the highest tax millage rates in the state. And regardless of whether we would be a wealthy community or not, it is not economically efficient to keep Hayti open," he said.

Members of the board established a committee of local people to discuss the issue. Bedell met with eight committee members for the first time Monday night at Hayti.

"It all comes down to dollar (See SCHOOL, page 3)

Lear Siegler announces expansion

Lear Siegler will build a $6 million dollar facility doubling the size of its existing plant and creating 190 new jobs with the assistance of a nine-year tax abatement granted by members of the Romulus city council last week.

The proposed 90,000 square feet Lear Siegler facility on Eureka Road near I-275 will supply automotive and truck seats to the new Mazda Flat Rock plant, according to Romulus City Assessor Matt Raftary.

He said the existing facility currently generates $16,000 to the city and the new facility would generate an additional $18,000 in taxes.

The tax abatement allows Lear Siegler a 50 percent break in local property taxes. While the company will save $1 million over the nine year period, it will also pay that amount. The abatement only applies to the building and not the land, Raftary explained.

Ellis Pennington said at the council meeting, "I don't usually vote for tax abatements, but this is an exception. This outfit fulfilled their obligations to the city of Romulus with their first abatement. At that time, they accepted employment application in the Romulus Progressive Hall. They said they will do the same again and consider Romulus residents first."

"Michigan tax abatements have not worked to the advantage everyone expected," said councilman Barry Baumann. "But there is tremendous competition from overseas and we are looking at several plant closings in the metropolitan area. In this case, I agree with the abatement. This is our way of saying thank you and good luck in the future."

Mayor pro tem Mary Ann Banks added that Lear Siegler has an "excellent relationship with the city of Romulus."

Richard Vander Veen, attorney for Lear Siegler noted, "This new state-of-the-art facility will be designed to produce seats and deliver them just-in-time to the new Mazda plant in Flat Rock. We look forward to working with you."

Scott Banks, John Wilhit, Ginny Septer, Sherry Luchinski, Lynn Wilkerson, Carl Rodgers, Kristy Branch and Kristina Mohlman are finishing high school while their guests finish a gourmet meal. ANP photos by Guy Warren/staff photographer

"I like it a lot. This is better than regular school. I want to graduate," said Carl Rodgers, 19.

Scott Banks even wants to open a bakery of his own someday or start a catering business. "I don't have any high school credits. Through the program I located a job. And now it's working out. This is our last chance to get a diploma. And it's a lot better than a Graduation Equivalent Diploma. But that in big letters," stressed Banks.

"This course is better than alright," said Sherry Luchinski, 16. "They treat you like adults. You learn how to communicate with others."

Students recently prepared their first complete meal for selected friends and guests. The menu included Beef Rouladen, glazed carrots, au gratin potatoes, salad, dinner rolls and a banana split dessert.

Halbritter said they're learning good. "When they learn all I know, then I'll kick 'em out," he added.

local news in brief

Hospital rooms are costing more

WAYNE - The Peoples Community Hospital Authority last week raised the price of semi-private hospital rooms at all five PCHA hospitals.

The cost of a room at the hospitals - Annapolis, Beyer Memorial, Seaway, Heritage and Outer Drive - is now $335 per day, up from the $312 per day charged before the increase. Beginning July 1, those rates will be increased again to $351.75 per day.

PCHA hospitals are owned and operated by 24 members communities, including Wayne, Westland, Inkster, Romulus, Belleville, Van Buren and Sumpter townships.

Medal of Merit deadline extended

INKSTER - The nomination deadline for Congressman Sander Levin's Medal of Merit has been extended to April 15.

The deadline for the prestigious award which honors area youths was extended after several citizens requested more time in preparing the nominations.

For more information about the medal, call 559-4444.

County hosts area meeting

WAYNE COUNTY - Local lawmakers were to meet with Wayne County officials last night in a first-ever Wayne County Legislative Assembly.

The meeting was designed to address various topics affecting all communities within the county, including jail space, indigent health care, economic development and county finances.

Other issues to be addressed were the Metro Airport expansion, anti-crime measures and intergovernmental cooperation.

More than 28 cities and townships were expected to attend the event.

Appeal filed for bookstore

WAYNE - Attorneys for the Read More News and Video adult bookstore in Wayne filed for an appeal of the March 6 Wayne County Circuit Court order that forced the business to cease operation.

Pat Cwiek, legal counsel for the city of Wayne, said this week that the bookstore attorneys filed for the appeal March 26 in the Michigan Court of Appeals.

According to Cwiek, bookstore attorneys have 28 days to file motions giving the reason for the appeal, and city attorneys will, likewise, have 28 days after the bookstore motions are filed to file their own arguments in the case.

In addition, Cwiek said she will be filing a motion in the U.S. District Court, asking that a lawsuit filed by bookstore attorneys in the federal court be dismissed. Bookstore attorneys filed the suit last year, alleging that First Amendment rights had been violated by the city imposing zoning and site plan review requirements on the business.

The Circuit Court case - which has been closed and is now being appealed - is a state of Michigan lawsuit. The U.S. District Court case is a federal lawsuit.

figures," said Doug Bumgardner, parent of a first-grader at Hayti.

Cheryl Bumgardner, his wife, was elected president of the Hayti Parent Teacher Organization last week.

"Eventually a district-wide committee will make the final decision. There is always much controversy about which school to close. In 1981, Gordonier Elementary was the last school closed. Before that it was Beverly Elementary," said Bedell.

Other schools closed during the past several years were Harrison Elementary, Mt. Pleasant Elementary and South Junior High School.

The school district sold Harrison for $140,000 more than seven years ago "in the midst of the depression," noted Bedell. Gordonier is leased to a paraprofessional group for $700 per month. The Romulus

Police Department leases the former South building for $1 per year and "pays for all the upkeep." Beverly School is leased to the Michigan Department of Social Services for $1 and again they pay for utilities. Mt. Pleasant is used by the Headstart Program and partially funded by local money, according to Bedell.

Bedell responded to questions from concerned committee members. He said property values have been proven not to decrease after a local school closing. Class sizes in surrounding schools will not increase relative to Hayti closing but only because of the proposed personnel layoffs.

Ken Berlinn told his audience at the board meeting, "We are concerned about you and your children. You will definitely be part of the decision making process."

Parents stressed that of the six elementary schools in the city, if Hayti is closed, only Cory and Wick would remain north of the I-94 freeway and none in the northeastern section of the city.

Parents were concerned about the impact of increased numbers of students in other schools. Bedell reassured them there was plenty of room.

Hayti is the smallest city school with a square footage of 23,000 while Barth, Halecreek and Wick, sister schools with a square footage of 50,000 each, are the largest.

Enrollment at Hayti is near capacity with 293 students and Barth is least utilized with 374 students, according to Bedell. Throughout the entire school district, 2,592 elementary students attend.

Celeste Kerekes said she does not want her children bussed the long distance to Barth and would not even feel comfortable traveling to Halecreek or Merriman. "It takes my kids five minutes to get to school. I don't want an hour bus ride," she said.

Bedell said the longest period of time Romulus students ride the bus is about one-half hour. "Romulus has the second most efficient bus transportation system in the county," he added.

Pat Sprinkle said Hayti closing would hurt the whole side of town where it is the only public building. "Don't our 400 petition signatures count for anything?" she asked.

Airport

advantage of us on so many occasions," said Councilman Ellis Pennington. "When are we going to receive something from the airport? The school district is the biggest beneficiary of this bill."

School Superintendent William Bedell responded Monday, "I never said any of that nor could any action be taken without board approval. The Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara said at a recent meeting that there was too much state-wide opposition for the bill to pass in its present form. In addition, Detroit Mayor Coleman Young wants to develop City Airport. That creates a problem with us.

"The issue has definitely not been cancelled by the school board. Should we have decided to drop out of the lobbying effort, we certainly would have given advance notice. We hope something can be accomplished in Lansing," Bedell explained.

State Representative Jim Kosteva, major sponsor of the bill said components of the bill are presently being negotiated with Wayne County officials.

"The issue here is that many businesses are operating on the airport site, none of which pay property taxes to the city of Romulus or the school district. The bill is in committee now but should be ready to go before the House for a vote this summer," Kosteva said.

Council meeting members of the council discussed a resolution which would continue the lobbying effort at their regular meeting last week. However, the resolution they approved was aimed at the members of the school board.

Councilman Pete Bergeron saw the situation somewhat differently and urged fellow members to pressure the school board. "Let's put the squeeze on them," he said.

A resolution went out to members of the school board asking them to reconsider the joint lobbying effort already established last year.

"It's a most worthy cause and it should benefit all of us tremendously. A decision should be reached very soon. When we make gains, we like to keep them," said Banks.

RESURFACING OF EUREKA ROAD MIDDLEBELT TO COLBERT

WHEREAS: Eureka Road in the City of Romulus, Wayne County Michigan, is a County road under the jurisdiction of Wayne County; and

WHEREAS: The Wayne County Office of Public Services is proposing a project to resurface Eureka Road from Middlebelt Road to Colbert Avenue, and

WHEREAS: The above project was originally on the Wayne County Federal Aid Urban System (F.A.U.S.) project list and has now been transferred to the County's Internal Resurfacing Program for 1987, and

WHEREAS: The cost for the 1987 Internal Resurfacing Program has been estimated at $75,000 per lane mile and the local city share for the above resurfacing project has been established at 12 1/2 percent of the estimated total project cost; and

WHEREAS: The total cost to resurface Eureka Road from Middlebelt Road to Colbert Avenue has been estimated at $108,000 and the City of Romulus's share has been established at $13,500.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That the Romulus City Council does on the ninth day of March, 1987, take this means to express its desire to join with Wayne County in proceeding with a project to resurface Eureka Road from Middlebelt Road to Colbert Avenue, and furthermore does hereby approve and authorize payment of the City's share of $13,500 in the manner set forth in the Wayne County Internal Resurfacing Program Guidelines, dated January 30, 1987.

PUBLIC SAFETY ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

WHEREAS: There is currently pending before the Michigan House of Representatives, House Bill 4206 and 4207, which would establish a Public Safety Assistance Program; and

WHEREAS: This program would provide financial assistance for public safety to 32 Michigan cities by reallocating five cents of the State cigarette tax, no longer needed for the State accounting debt fund, to a public safety enhancement program; and

WHEREAS: The 32 communities benefiting from these funds have joined together to form a Municipal Public Safety Consortium, for the purpose of engaging a lobbyist to promote the passage of the legislation; and

WHEREAS: Such an endeavor is a costly undertaking for one community, but when shared by 32 communities can be seen as a modest investment in acquiring additional public safety funds.

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED: That The City of Romulus agrees to continue to participate in the Municipal Public Safety Consortium and commits its share of $1,000 based upon population for the purpose of continuing the services of a lobbyist/lobbyist agent to insure passage of House Bill 4206 and 4207, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That the City Council of the City of Romulus does hereby officially go on record in support of House Bill 4206 and 4207, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That the City's position on this legislation will be communicated to its lawmakers in Lansing with strong encouragement to act favorably on this bill.

Health-O-Rama comes to area

Project Health-O-Rama will be offered to local residents next week for people 18 and older. The free health tests are designed to provide a community service to people who could otherwise not afford the testing. The Health-O-Rama will be at Beyer Memorial Hospital from noon-4:30 p.m. Saturday, April 11. Beyer is located at 135 S. Prospect Road, south of Michigan Avenue, in Ypsilanti. The free health services will also be administered at the Wayne Community Center from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Wednesday, April 15. The center is located at 4635 Howe Road, at Annapolis, in Wayne.

Included in the free tests will be those for height and weight checks, blood pressure, hearing, vision and glaucoma. Examination of the skins and mouth for signs of cancer will be offered as well as measurements of lung capacity, health hazard appraisals, breast exams and breast self-exam information.

Two optional services – blood panel test and colon-rectal cancer test – are available for $8 and $2 respectively. For more information, call Beyer at 484-2200 or Annapolis Hospital (for the Wayne Community Center) at 467-4364.

Hospital group adopts budget

An operating budget of approximately $152 million in expenses and $155 million in net revenues was adopted by the Board of Directors of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority March 19 for the 1988 fiscal year, which begins July 1, 1987.

The budget takes into account continuation of full health care services at the five PCHA hospitals – Annapolis, Beyer, Heritage, Outer Drive and Seaway. It also includes cost-cutting measures implemented earlier this year, according to PCHA officials.

The Authority is projecting a $6 million operating loss in the fiscal year that ends June 30, 1987 and an operating income of $3 million in the 1988 fiscal year.

PCHA board members agreed to continue to level the .2 mills to the 24 member communities for the new budget year. However, those officials warn, that taxing rate could be increased to the .4 mills allowed under membership requirements if the status of the organization is not changed from the present public agency to a private, nonprofit institution.

Church breaks new ground

The Westland Church of the Nazarene conducted a groundbreaking service March 22 on a new 9.2-acre site, located on Palmer Road, east of Hix.

Participating in the ceremony were Westland Mayor Charles Griffin, Dr. Marselle Knight, superintendent of the Eastern Michigan District Church of the Nazarene, Stephen Lowe, pastor, Thorton Van Der Voort and Paul Miller, church board trustees, William Nikkila, of Zion Church Builders, and Greg Brown, of Wayne Bank.

Construction will begin soon on the 11,113-square-foot facility. The new building will contain a sanctuary with seating for 300, baptistry, fellowship hall, educational space and church offices.

The project completion date is set for November.

Homes help radon tests

Special devices for measuring radon will be placed in about 100 area homes within the next few weeks as part of a county-wide test.

Michigan and nine other states are participating in the U.S./E.P.A.-sponsored indoor radon survey. After two days in the home, the devices will be sent to the E.P.A. for analysis. County officials expect to find only low levels of naturally-occurring radon in Wayne County homes.

Radon is a radioactive gas which is produced naturally in the ground and found in minute concentrations almost everywhere on earth. Significant amounts of the chemical can infiltrate and accumulate in homes and cause a possible health threat.

State in the fast lane?

Local lawmakers would support higher speed limits

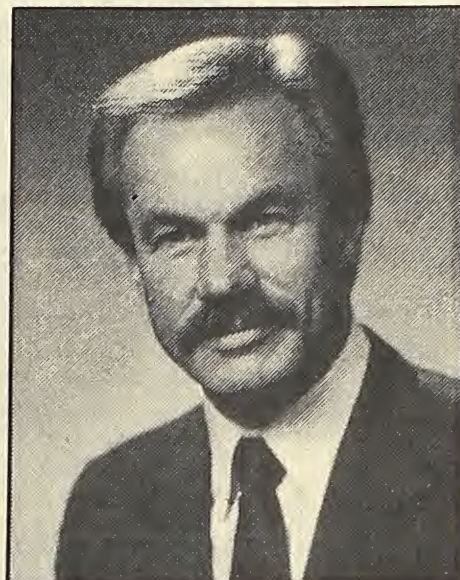

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Justine Barns

William Faust

Jim Kosteva

State and federal legislatures are now at odds since President Ronald Reagan vetoed an $88 million highway bill on Friday, according to local representatives.

State Representative Justine Barns of Westland said, the bill, passed by both the houses of Congress, would provide federal funding for highway reconstruction and increase the speed limit from 55 to 65 on rural highways.

She said the president's action is a major setback for both opponents of an increased highway speed limit and for state highway construction projects.

State Representative James Kosteva of District 37 which includes Belleville, Romulus, Wayne, Van Buren Township and part of Canton noted, "A number of highway projects across the state will be delayed because of this federal "snafu." This is not the budget busting bill President Reagan has made it out to be. Most of the money came from local highway taxes. It's the people's money."

Barns added, "The first thing I understand Congress will do is try to override the president's veto. I have no problem with 65 mph as the maximum speed. But if Michigan legislators pursue the enactment of the bill presently in a Senate committee, the state may be in violation of federal law and therefore not be eligible for federal funds. I'd like to know where we're at."

State Senator William Faust of District 12 which includes Wayne, Romulus, Belleville, Flat Rock, and the townships of Sumpter and Van Buren agreed.

"There are many problems with the proposed state bill. It should be released from the committee by Tuesday and voted on by the end of the week, depending on the length of time it is debated," he said.

"Federal funding is tied to federal law. I question what the impact of this action will have on Michigan. Federal law gives states the right to lower or raise speed limits. Should Congress have passed the 65 mph law, states would not be mandated to raise their speed limits.

"There's no question that lower speed limits save lives. Major deaths and accidents have documented this. The only way to avoid this is with heavy enforcement of the 65 mph limit. The recently vetoed federal bill tied in both speed limit with reconstruction expenditures," explained Faust from his district on Friday.

Of concern to local lawmakers is the impact of an increased speed limit on fuel consumption which might "jeopardize the ability of America to remain somewhat self sufficient."

Faust said gas consumption in America is up 30 percent over three years ago and if the trend continues, "gas prices could skyrocket."

"I personally favor the increased speed limit. The existing law is unworkable. People defiantly drive against it. Hopefully, people will drive safely. Governor James Blanchard, as I understood him, has said should the limit be increased, expenditures for state highway patrols would also increase as much as 15 percent or about $35-40 million," Faust said.

"The big question is would the state be violating federal law and would we risk the loss of federal funds. Only the interstate highways, some state roads and county roads determined by the state would be affected," said Barns.

"The 65 mph speed limit is now a dead issue," said Kosteva.

Local roads would be affected

Two major local road projects among several others fell victim to President Ronald Reagan's veto of a $88 million highway bill.

Specifically mentioned in the bill passed by both Houses of Congress, according to Lee Daniels, area planner for the Michigan Department of Transportation, is an east-west state trunk line connecting the Downriver area with the Metropolitan Airport in Romulus.

"There were only two demonstration projects in Michigan named in the bill. These particular type of projects are funded slightly different because more federal money is involved. The president's veto has hurt the project," Daniels said.

She also indicated that the state will continue to study the feasibility of the east-west linkage even though "there are no specific funds."

"We studied it before and we'll still look at it. Ultimately, the project would involve doing something with an existing mile road. Funds may still be allocated from the State Transportation Commission. Though we're still a little way from a decision. Chances are we'll do it without federal money," she added.

Near Traverse City was the only other state road project mentioned specifically, according to Daniels.

The impact on local roads would soon be felt as spring is the time of year road construction and repair begins in this part of the country, Daniels noted.

Not only would the interstate free-ways be affected but state trunk lines, main county roads and several major city streets, she said.

Colleen Mintere, spokesperson for the Wayne County Road Commission, explained the loss in federal funding would affect 10 county roads and two bridge projects, the Belleville Bridge and the Dix Road Bridge. The cost of these projects was to have been $15 million. No other specifics about what local roads would be affected were available at press time.

Van Buren schools seek kindergartners

A kindergarten sign up campaign will be conducted in each of the six Van Buren Elementary schools beginning March 27 and continuing through noon on April 3.

Parents with youngsters who will be five years old before Dec. 1 should register their child for kindergarten during that period. After signing up, parents and children will be invited to an open house in May.

According to Douglas Brown, director of instruction, every child has his or her individual timetable for growth and development. Consequently, not all youngsters are ready for learning in a school environment at the same age.

Recognizing that each child matures at a different pace, the Van Buren Public Schools are offering a developmental kindergarten program to better meet the individual needs of youngsters, Brown said. In order to place children in the proper setting, the names and addresses of all children who will be enrolled in kindergarten during the 1987-88 school year are needed.

Lily Days slated

"Lily Days for Easter Seals" will be conducted April 3 though 5 by the Belleville Rotary Club.

Rotary members, under the direction of Chairman Ernest Burns, will be located throughout the Belleville business district, the Lakewood Shopping Center and Belleville Square to raise funds for the Wayne County Easter Seal Society. Rotarians also have placed canisters in many local business establishments.

All funds raised will remain in Wayne County to aid handicapped children and adults to reach their maximum potential. The Easter Seal Society provides a year around program of services which includes recreational therapy, physical therapy, human services programs, vocational evaluations, an equipment loan closet, ramp construction, transportation services and occupational therapy, according to Burns.

Miniature masterpieces

Parents of Romulus Junior High students took a step back in time and place when they attended their child's teacher conference last month. Around the school cafeteria were miniature replicas of George Washington's home at Mt. Vernon, the White House, Mackinac Bridge and other small works of art. Pictured showing off just a few of their masterpieces are students Tina Atherton (from left), Lisa Watson, Ethan Gullickson, Joe Adkinson, James Thomas, Dan Bowdell, Jerry Tarpley, Patreece Amos and Andy French. ## HOW OFTEN DOES MY CHILD NEED DENTAL X-RAYS?

Dental X-rays are only used when necessary for a child's health. Each patient is an individual case, and the need for X-rays varies from mouth to mouth. Dental X-rays are an excellent diagnostic aid that show the condition and position of unerupted teeth.

Step into the future

Tomorrow, voters in the Wayne-Westland School District will be asked to spend about $28 to insure the future of their schools, their communities and their futures. We strongly urge them to say yes.

Two proposals on the ballot would insure that the present services and curriculum remains intact and allow for improvements to the buildings and available equipment. Both of these seem to be sound requests based in reality and consistent with the present economy.

The first proposal, labeled on the ballot as A, requests voters to approve a 2.75 millage for the next three years, which school officials have characterized as less than 50 cents of each $1,000 of State Equalized Valuation of homes. This request which ranges from about $28 to $60 per year depending on the valuation of property within the city, seems to be reasonable, particularly in light of the cost increases the schools have absorbed during the past few years. As the economy continues to spiral, the costs of books, pencils, paper, erasers and chalk have increased tremendously. The last increase approved by the Wayne-Westland voters for operational expenses was in 1979. As any consumer can testify, costs have risen markedly since that time.

The bond issue, which will provide $12.9 million in funding, is labeled as proposal B on the ballot. There can be no doubt that this is money much needed by the district. We are in the Wayne-Westland schools frequently, and while the equipment and the buildings seem well-maintained, there is no doubt that many of the buildings are in dire need of repair and that equipment in several is sorely outdated and in need of replacement and updating.

Based on the presentation of data and research and documentation by members of the board and administration, we would urge voters to approve both these requests. No one needs to remind parents of the importance of education today and no one needs to stress the necessity of learning in an atmosphere of professionalism and comfort.

As we have said so many times, our children are our future and the education we provide them is an investment in the continuation of our country, our society and all we hold dear.

We would hope voters would remember that when they visit the polls tomorrow and not be mired down with empty rhetoric about the high cost of administration or teachers' salaries. This money is slated for the operation of the schools and to provide students with a facility in which to learn and study. It will also allow for the purchase of equipment necessary to facilitate the learning process.

A yes vote on both these proposals can only make life better for everyone, now and in the future.

Foolish day has purpose

Wouldn't it just be my luck that the week it is my turn to write a column also happens to be April Fool's Day?

I like April Fool's Day, not because I know so many people after whom it was named, but because it causes people to remember how important humor is to the human existence.

But I do have a fear these days. I'm afraid that on the heels of this great national holiday some citizens of our country just really don't understand what is going on. Humor is the emphasis here, not the foolishness. Let me cite a few examples.

Take the religious names in the news of late. I'm beginning to think that if fame and fortune is what you want, Hollywood is no longer the answer. Television evangelism is.

I can't help but cast a skeptic

tical eye on Oral Roberts and his great fundraising efforts. I mean, when I belonged to groups that needed to raise money, I always found myself toting around a carton of M&Ms, gift wrap and 1,001 high-priced items that will never be useful.

I never once thought that a starvation threat could be so profitable.

Now I know that Mr. Roberts has a good use for $8 million. I mean he probably wouldn't even be tempted to use any of that money for himself, considering he already has the dire necessities of life – $500,000 home in California with a large swimming pool and a large, luxurious car to drive around.

And, I just know that when he said he needed $8 million for his medical missionaries – who are educated at the multi-million dollar Oral Roberts University and 60-story City of Faith Hospital – he was expressing only a pressing need for some very underpaid assistants.

Incidentally, Roberts' deadline for raising the money was April 1. Appropriately so. Now comes the test. Is this an example of humor or plain and simple foolishness?

Next example.

Take the other religious crazies of late. The Bakkers and their religious ordeals. Bring the Rev. Jerry Falwell into the

Computers and communications

It has been some time now since Associated Newspapers entered the wonderful world of computers. I can now tell you all kinds of things about hard drives, networking, floppies, RAM memory, megabytes and on it goes. My main problem seems to be interfacing...me with it.

The infernal electronic wizardry of IBM, Okidata, EtherShare, and the like have me frustrated beyond belief when it comes to actual hands-on operations.

Now, I've mastered the basic things I have to do every week in order to input this column. On the keyboard I can even tap-tap-tap through certain other basic functions, but it seems like everytime I attempt to tackle something new, my blood pressure starts to rise.

What I love the most is people who tell me "how easy it is to..." whatever. Easy for them to say! Bah, hum-bug.

What I know for sure is that it's like most other skills. You need: a) a good teacher, b) time and motivation to practice, c) as few distractions as possible, and someone to get you back on track when you invariably become derailed.

If you don't have all of the above...well, you'll soon find yourself on soft ground with software and hardware.

There are many times when it is difficult to discern just what the problem is when dealing with these infernal artificial intelligences. You can go on an endless search seeking your error in inputting data or commands only to finally discover that the hardware is malfunctioning.

Conversely, you can convince yourself that it's "not my fault," that it must be "the machine," only to find that you inadvertently failed to insert a space within a command and therefore the computer could not recognize your request for information.

They talk about computers being "user friendly," implying that the software is written in such a way as to make it easy for us to ask for help and find it easily.

As I so often do, I have tried to analyze what constitutes an appropriate attitude when approaching the computer, and as well, what it takes to develop good computing skills.

They say that computers are pure logic, and that they operate pretty much the same way the human brain approaches information retrieval, problem solving, or whatever other tasks our societies "technocrats" can count on computers to accomplish.

It seems to me that there is a very clear correlation between one's ability to learn to communicate with the computer, and one's ability to communicate with humankind.

If our lives are on overload, our hearing tends to be impaired, and we are far more apt to convince ourselves that "they" didn't tell us or "they" were not listening. Sometimes we convince ourselves that "we" told them right but "they" heard us wrong.

What happens then, when our computer requires us to talk "their" language, or else they won't give us what we are seeking? What happens when there is no personality involved, no Machiavellian plot, no ulterior motive, only pure logic?

It doesn't take long to realize what, or rather who, is the real problem.

When we communicate, or at least attempt to communicate with our fellow man, it is simple to find an excuse as to why things don't always go right, why there are misunderstandings, misinformation and misstatements of fact.

But the computer tells it like it is, or at least like we told it. If we can not communicate with "it," learn its language, learn its logic

Alzheimer's group lauds article

To The Editor:

The article you wrote on "Alzheimer's - Old Disease, New Support" in the March 4, 1987 issue of your newspapers was excellent and we very much appreciate your extensive coverage.

We want your readers to know that there is help available for the Alzheimer's victim as well as for the family. We have a telephone helpline, counseling assistance and respite care. We can refer people to physicians who are knowledgeable about Alzheimer's disease or help people find the services they need.

While it is true that Alzheimer's disease is irreversible and there is no cure available at present, there is much that can be done to manage the symptoms and improve the quality of life for the patient. One of the primary ways to do this is by supporting the caregiver. A family support group is one way of supporting the caregiver – an important way.

Fire department 'education' questioned

To The Editor:

I want to express my gratitude to Associated Newspapers and to the city of Inkster for seeing to it that each residence in Inkster received the March 18 copy of the Inkster Ledger-Star. It was especially flattering to have my letter published in the same issue as the city's slick PR job on the move toward a mostly-volunteer fire department for Inkster.

As it happens, I favor that sort of approach to the problem of escalating costs. What really bothers me about that issue is the way in which the volunteer fire department propaganda has so blatantly been put together as to appear as though it is this paper's usually well-researched coverage. The "disclaimer" (and it is only barely perceptible) is very vague. Was it written by the same PR firm that did the rest of the piece? The city got a real bargain if that two-page spread cost only $4,000. Of course, you just have to know that only one side of the problem is presented in that piece of propaganda.

I leave it to others to refute each argument addressed in the advertisement. I am more concerned with the perversion of the fourth estate to a tool of politicians. It seems to me that those favoring the other side of the argument should be given their own two-page spread...free if that is what the city paid the paper for the city version.

Citizens of Inkster have expressed the belief that the city electicians were going to address the issue of a volunteer fire department in a public forum via a "hearing." It is most typical of our city mayor and council to talk of discussions, debates, and decisions, but think real hard now.

When did you ever see the politicians of Inkster actually meet in public and debate an issue?

Poaching penalties toughened

william keith

In order to preserve and protect Michigan game animals, the state issues licenses to hunters and establishes rules governing the number of animals which may be taken, at what times and in what manner. These laws are necessary to ensure the continued survival of the species and an adequate supply of game animals to be hunted.

Legislation has recently been passed by the State House which strengthens the penalties for poaching and other violations of state game laws. The bill, which now must be approved by the State Senate, is based on a very successful Wisconsin law that has led to a dramatic decline of poaching in that state and an increase in the number of available game animals.

Basically, the House-passed bill increases the minimum fines and jail terms for specific violations of the state game laws. For example, under the proposed law, a person convicted of the illegal killing or possession of parts of an elk would face a fail term of 30 to 180 days, a fine of $500 to $1000 or both. This is an increase from the current required fine of $250 to $1000. In addition, the convicted person would be liable for the costs of the prosecution, and would have to reimburse the state for the value of the animal. The bill calls for similar increases in fines and jail terms for the illegal taking of other game species, including deer, bear, timber wolves and wild turkeys.

In addition, the bill would stiffen the penalties for people convicted of using artificial light in hunting deer or bear in Michigan, increasing the minimum fine from $50 to $250 and the maximum from $300 to $500. Another provision of the proposed law covers people who sell or receive anything of value in return for an animal or parts of an animal protected by the bill. The first such offense would be classified as a misdemeanor, punishable by at least 90 days in jail and a fine of $250 to $1000. Any subsequent violations would be classified as felonies, which carry harsher sentences.

Hunters, environmentalists, game law enforcement officials and lawmakers agree that regulation of hunting and the sure punishment of poaching is necessary to preserve Michigan wildlife. The measure passed by the House has proven to be valuable in our neighboring state and should prove to be equally effective if passed into law here.

Morgan 'balances' budgets, sixth grade

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

During the day, John Morgan teaches students the basics of fractions and percentages and in the evening, tackles the complex million dollar budget of Sumpter Township.

To add to Morgan's accomplishments, his students at Merriman Elementary in Romulus are sixth graders, notoriously wild and energetic like young people their age everywhere.

"You can do so many things at this age," said Morgan. "It's my favorite grade. You get them at a time when they're changing and about to enter another phase. The little kid is still in them yet, they try so hard to act like adults. The satisfaction is really hard to explain."

Morgan first began his teaching career at Beverly School in Romulus in 1968. He came to Merriman School when it opened in 1970. And with the exception of one year has taught the infamous sixth grade since.

But that's just one side of this unusual man. Long active in community politics, including his serving as a Sumpter Township Board Trustee since 1978, Earlier this month, Morgan was appointed township treasurer by members of the board.

He and his wife, he noted, met in Hell, but "never thought of it that way. I met Beatrice when we were both counselors at a camp for underprivileged children. It was called 'Fresh Air Camp' in Hell, Michigan." They have four children.

When Morgan isn't at the township hall or in school, he can be found on the golf course or the nearest fishing spot, possibly the Detroit River or Lake Erie when the walleye run. "I practice golf every day, if the weather lets me," Morgan said.

ASSOCIATED NEWSPAPERS: How did you find your way to Romulus and Sumpter?

MORGAN: I was looking for the country. I was born and raised in Greenwood, Miss. I'm 54 years-old and don't usually like to admit my age, especially to students.

After my discharge as an army corporal, my father encouraged me to attend a northern college. I wanted to study in the south. I came to Detroit in 1956, got a job at the post office and studied at Wayne State University. I finished at Eastern Michigan University and earned a bachelors and masters degree in education.

I had moved to Inkster, then to Romulus and finally to Sumpter, each time seeking a country atmosphere. It just took a while. Now my family and I are located on seven acres. Sumpter is really out in the country.

Our house isn't fancy, but we're happy there. When we first came out here, everyone was excited. Every inch of ground was planted. We raised ducks, geese and turkeys. At one time we had a goat and pony. Soon the novelty wore off and it became work. Beatrice planted so many flats of flowers and I moved so many trees...we got tired.

ANP: Weren't you at the same time getting involved in local affairs?

MORGAN: Yes, I've been very active. In 1977, I became involved as a citizen because of a water problem in southern Sumpter Township. The federal government allocated $1 million for water lines in the northern part of the township when the southern half really needed it. We filed a lawsuit and after an investigation, the decision was changed and we received another million dollars.

It's not that I have burning political ambitions. I just want a voice in the local government. That's why I stayed in Sumpter.

ANP: Were there any other memorable issues?

MORGAN: Another hot, hot issue was the landfill on Willow Road. It became the worst thing you could imagine in a township. And it was poorly regulated. The problem dragged on for years and we suffered through it.

ANP: What do you expect in your new job as treasurer?

MORGAN: It will be a challenge I think I can handle. The most difficult part will be measuring up to the standards set by the former treasurer Tom Gondek. He was one of the most competent people ever to hold that position. But I'll meet the challenge and give it my all.

Luckily, my deputy treasurer, Veronica Dyer is very competent.

the picture, pass a few harsh words back and forth, and the whole thing fits perfectly into this April Fool's Day picture. Humorous or foolish?

Now, please don't get me wrong here. I have nothing against Roberts, the Bakers or Falwell. I'm not poking fun at religion. What I am trying to do is help the general public decipher the foolish from the humorous and vice versa.

Humor is a prized possession which I admire in any personality. It's a trait I covet and desire. I will gladly take one person with a sense of humor as my friend as opposed to 100 people who lack a humorous side. For I have long believed that if people can't learn to laugh at life, life will be meaningless. But we can't let humor be confused with foolishness. And we can't let humor be excluded from our daily lifestyle. That would be foolish. But, then again, who's to say that a little foolishness isn't humorous, especially on this great holiday? Confused? Don't be - that wouldn't be humorous. That get quotes from would be foolish. Get the idea? Maybe I should have just stuck to listing all those people I believe are being honored on April Fool's Day. That could be humorous. I could have half-off sales in their honor, and everyone could get the day off of work for this newly-created national holiday.

Now I'm being foolish. See you next time.

then perhaps we need to take a look at our habits, skills, willingness to learn and adapt.

As we learn about how a computer learns, thinks and expands its knowledge base...as we realize as never before what it takes to internalize new languages in order to communicate with the computer, we learn far more about about our own strengths and weakness as communicators.

See you next week.

YMCA has party facilities

If you are looking for something different to celebrate a birthday or other important occasion, the Wayne-Westland YMCA staff believes they may have the answer.

On Saturday or Sunday afternoons, groups or individuals may rent the lobby and use the swimming pool to conduct a celebration. The YMCA will furnish a life guard and also provide a pizza or a cake for the party.

Additional information and reservations are available by calling Pauline King at 721-7044.

CHIROPRACTIC HEALTH CARE IS VITAL TO YOUR RECOVERY

INSURANCE PLANS PAY

FOR CHIROPRACTIC CARE INCLUDING
NO FAULT • BLUE CROSS/BLUE SHIELD
WORKER'S COMPENSATION and Many Others

ON-THE-JOB INJURIES

The most common occupational injury is sacroiliac strain. It occurs when the sacrum or tailbone slips from its normal position in relationship to the bones of the pelvis. There is extensive muscular and ligamentous strain. The pain is excruciating and movement of the legs is restricted. Often the sciatic nerve becomes involved which produces even greater disability.

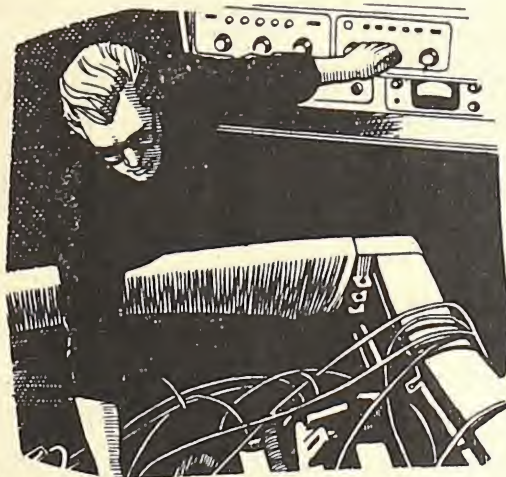

A person suffering from sacroiliac strain assumes a bent forward position. Any attempt to stand tall results in a sharp and stinging pain. This type of strain is serious. If unattended a sacroiliac strain can lead to chronic weakness of the region.

Almost as common as sacroiliac strain is spinal strain, or what we often call a "wrenched back". This injury results from improper lifting, straining when pushing heavy objects and poor working posture. It can be felt anywhere along the spine. There may be an injury to one or more vertebrae. If the strain occurs in the upper back, shoulders and arms may become involved. There is muscular tension and soreness. Any type of motion causes increased pain and all positions, whether sitting, standing or lying, may be uncomfortable.

If you are a working man or woman, an occupational injury could place a great financial, emotional, and physical burden on you and your family. It is your right as an employee to be protected as much as possible in such a case. It is for this reason that Worker's Compensation laws have been enacted in every state. Their intent is to assure the injured worker the best care available.

Specific terms vary from state to state, but in general this means you are entitled to complete coverage of health care expenses incurred due to an injury, and partial or complete compensation for loss of wages.

If you are injured your most important consideration will be the type of care you choose, since this will probably determine how much pain and anxiety you will have to suffer, and for how long.

An important provision of Worker's Compensation which is often overlooked is the right to select the doctor and type of treatment which best suits your condition.

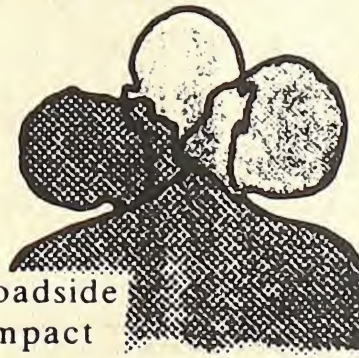

Spinal and sacroiliac strain are only two of the disabling conditions a worker may suffer with as a result of an on the job injury. But since back injuries account for one-tenth of the total time loss injuries in industry, it is the area which deserves attention. And it is in this area in which chiropractic can achieve great success. Chiropractic attention will quickly reveal the involved vertebrae and corrective adjustments will bring about a quick relief of the symptoms and a rapid correction of the disorder.

If you or one of your loved ones are hurt on the job, consult our Chiropractic Life Center immediately. Modern scientific chiropractic procedures reduce suffering, time loss and the possibility of permanent serious injury.

AUTO ACCIDENT VICTIMS

That Sudden Stop

Broadside
Impact

Rear-End
Impact

Neck and spinal injuries, as a result of automobile accidents, are among the fastest growing health problems in the country today. The ever increasing number of automobiles on our crowded highways provide the ideal opportunity for the type of accident that results in sudden impact injuries.

Whiplash is the most frequent result of the sudden impact injury. The victim experiences severe headaches, shoulder pain, neuralgia of the neck and many other symptoms which are seemingly unrelated. When the head and neck are violently thrown forward and then backward, one or more vertebrae in the spine can slip out of normal position, interfering with the transmission of vital nerve energy.

Another common injury occurs when a person is thrown from the seat to the floor of a car, or against the car door. The sudden impact will be to the lower spine and, if the shock is great, vertebrae in this area will become dislocated. The symptoms of such an injury can include severe back pain, bladder disturbances, kidney disorders and menstrual distress among others.

As a result of any sudden impact injury, there may be sharp impingement of the nerves and consequent ill effects upon the victim's general health.

With modern scientific methods, we can quickly locate the vertebral injury. Then, with scientific and corrective spinal adjustments, we can realign the vertebrae involved. Even a minor spinal injury can result in an unlimited variety of distressing and painful effects. Many disabling conditions occur years after an automobile accident, but can be traced back to the sudden impact injury.

Our Chiropractic office specializes in treating sudden impact injuries. See us immediately after any type of accidental injury.

Easy as cake

Local baker is master of family foods

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

When Rita Alexander of Wayne bakes a small wedding cake, it will serve at least 100 people. And when she sets out to impress people with her fancy, four-tier wedding cake, it will serve 350 guests.

Nobody leaves the Alexander table hungry. Youthful appearance aside, Rita recently became a grandmother and now another generation of family members can boast about "grandma's delicious homecooking."

But this grandma cooks just a bit differently than those of years past. A microwave sits on her counter top and for those wonderful wedding cakes, she uses Duncan Hines. "I have no secret recipe. Everybody likes the way they taste, so I stick with 'em," she said.

"My mother taught all of us to cook," she recalled of her early days growing up on Main Street in downtown Wayne on the site of the fountain by National Bank of Detroit. Here, Rita was raised with four sisters and one brother.

Many family recipes, especially Christmas cookies, she noted, were handed down from her own grandmother. "Of course, when she cooked, it was a pinch of this and a pinch of that," she added.

Her parents were German and many family recipes have an ethnic theme. She often assisted her father making sauerkraut and remembers family discussions about when he butchered their own meat to stuff sausage. "I'd still make sauerkraut if it didn't smell up the house," she conceded.

"We grew-up on german potato salad, german meatballs and potato pancakes. Today, those pancakes are easy with a blender. Back then, when you grated by hand, you often had the flavor of skin," she quipped.

With no professional experience, Rita regularly bakes wedding cakes and at Christmas time, gingerbread houses for many family members and friends. "Cooking has always been a hobby rather than a job," she said. In years past, she volunteered her expertise at St. John's Lutheran Church in Wayne.

On any particular day, Rita prepares a full-course dinner for her live-in family which includes husband of 23 years, Ronald, children Sarah, 2, Steven, 16, Diane, 18, Kathy, 20, son-in-law, Guy and new grandchild, 4-month-old Kerin.

"Ron and I met on a blind date. He loves my cooking and his weight can be blamed on it. That might be one reason he's still here," she said with a chuckle.

Earlier this week, on an average day, Rita baked ham with scalloped potatoes and green beans. "We don't always have dessert," she added.

"My kitchen is small compared with other people. I recommend that you keep your cooking utensils confined within one or two footsteps instead of all spread out. That's one secret that works well for me," she concluded.

MIXED NUT BARS

Base

- 1 c. oleo, softened
- 1 c. brown sugar, packed
- 1 egg yolk
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 2 c. flour
- 1/4 tsp. salt

Topping

- 1 (6 oz.) pkg. butterscotch bits
- 1/2 c. light corn syrup
- 1 (13 oz.) can mixed nuts
- 2 Tbs. oleo
- 1 Tbs. water

Base: Mix 1 cup oleo, sugar, egg yolk and vanilla. Stir in flour & salt. Press in bottom of ungreased 13"x9"x2" pan. Bake 350° 25 min. Cool.

Topping: Mix bits, corn syrup, oleo and water in saucepan. Cook over medium until bits are melted. Cool.

Spread butterscotch mixture over base. Sprinkle nuts on top. Press gently into topping. Chill until topping is firm (about 1 hour). Cut into 1 1/2" squares. Makes 4 dozen.

HOT GERMAN POTATO SALAD

- 6 medium potatoes, boiled in jackets
- 6 slices bacon
- 6 eggs, hard cooked and sliced
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 2 Tbsp. flour
- 1 Tbsp. sugar

- 1 tsp. salt
- dash of pepper
- 3/4 c. water
- 2 Tbsp. vinegar

Peel potatoes and slice thin. Fry bacon, drain on paper towels and crumble. Sauté onion in bacon fat until golden brown. Blend in flour, salt, sugar and pepper. Cook over medium heat until smooth and bubbly. Remove pan from heat; add water and vinegar. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil until thick. Fold in bacon bits, potatoes and eggs slices. Heat through. Serves 6-8.

LASAGNA

- 1/2 pkg. lasagna noodles
  - 1/2 lb. ricotta
  - 1 lb. mozzarella
  - 3 oz. parmesan
- Tomato sauce:
- 1 lb. ground beef
  - 1/2 c. chopped onion

- 1 clove garlic
- 2 tsp. oregano
- 1 tsp. basil
- 2 Tbsp. parsley
- 2 Tbsp. sugar
- 1 (2 lb. 3 oz.) can tomatoes
- 1 Tbsp. salt
- 2 6 oz. cans tomato paste
- 1/2 tsp. pepper

Brown meat, add remaining sauce ingredients. Mix well mashing tomatoes with fork. Boil mixture; reduce heat to simmer and cook, covered, 3 hours.

Boil 3 quarts water with 1 Tbsp. salt and 1 Tbsp. olive oil. Add noodles, 2 pieces at a time. Boil 15 minutes. Drain and rinse.

In 9"x13"x2" pan layer sauce, noodles, ricotta, mozzarella, sauce and parmesan. Repeat ending with parmesan and a little mozzarella.

Bake, uncovered 350 degrees 45-50 minutes. Let stand 10-15 minutes before cutting.

Out of this world

Aunt Linnie's dessert is heavenly

Don't read this.

If you do read it, don't make the following dessert.

If you read it, make the dessert and eat it, then you are on your own when you step on the scale. The responsibility is yours, and yours alone. You've been warned.

What follows is a recipe from the famed "Aunt Linnie" who can knock your taste buds for a loop with nearly everything she concocts in her country (and it is COUNTRY) kitchen. She is known far and wide for her recipes and this simple but sinfully rich and elegant creation is but one of her prize winners.

Not only is it pretty, but it should be made in advance of company, and it's EASY, something most busy homemakers take note of these days.

Remember, don't eat it unless you can simply pretend calories don't exist. You'll have to, because this stuff is positively irresistible. Go ahead, just one little bite...and you'll be sneaking out of bed at 3 a.m. heading to the refrigerator for just one more little, teeny piece. And you'll do it until it's gone.

in the kitchen

Okay, read this, and make this dessert, and then eat it—and bask in the compliments you're bound to receive.

AUNT LINNIE'S DESSERT

- 1 cup all purpose flour
- 1/2 cup softened margarine or butter (that's one stick)
- 2 Tablespoons sugar
- 1/4 cup chopped nuts

Mix the margarine or butter, flour and sugar together in a small, deep bowl until a dough forms. Add nuts and then press the dough evenly into the bottom of a 9 x 13 inch Pyrex pan. (Pyrex works best, but a metal pan will do, and if it isn't quite those dimensions, it will still work—Aunt Linnie is easy to get along with). Bake this crust in a 325- to 350-degree oven until golden brown, about 15 minutes or so.

- 1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/3 medium size carton Cool Whip

While the crust is cooling, mix these three ingredients together with electric mixer and blend thoroughly. Set aside.

- 2 packages instant chocolate pudding (4 serving size)
- 3 cups milk

Mix the puddings according to package directions, but use only three cups milk. Set aside.

When the crust is cooled, spread the cream cheese mixture evenly, then top with the chocolate pudding, and the remaining Cool Whip in the carton. Top with ground nuts or chocolate sprinkles. Refrigerate for at least 6 hours before cutting into squares and serving.

What's in a name

Local residents attract giggles, disbelief with 'famous' names

What's in a name? For some local residents, the answer is a lot of confusion, a lot of laughs, giggles... and a taste of fame and notoriety.

For those who have been subjected to names like Bill, John, Jane and Mary - and those whose surnames ring out titles such as Smith, Brown, White and Jones - having the same name as someone else is sometimes confusing but rarely amusing. But for the select number of area folks who sport names such as Bob Hope, Ronald Reagan, Luke Skywalker and Charlie Brown, having the same name as someone else brings a bit of variety to the everyday lifestyle.

The next two pages are our attempt to expose and uncover those lifestyles, while giving another round of notoriety and attention to this select group of local folks who know first hand that there's a lot more than letters to "names that are the same."

Dick Clark gets laughs

A seventh-grade teacher is responsible for the conversion of Richard Clark's name into Dick. Today, the 42-year-old Wayne resident gets lots of laughs when he gives his name as Dick Clark.

"I get giggles practically every day. There is a gal at the bank who whistles the American Bandstand theme. She's been doing that for about 10 years," Clark explained.

An attorney by trade, Clark uses his namesake to break the ice when dealing with colleagues and clients. The rock-and-roll title has brought a smile from more than one judge sitting on the bench, he said.

"When I call people up and tell them I'm Dick Clark, they ask me if I am the real one," Clark said, "I tell them 'Of course I'm real.'"

Not everyone knows Clark as Dick. To his immediate family, it's still Richard. To some friends, Rick gets attention. But to most people Clark knows through his activities with the

Dick Clark

Civilians and other local organizations. Dick Clark still keeps them smiling.

"A few years ago we were having a 50s dance in Wayne, and of course I was the 'D.J.' Everyone thought it was great, except a lady who came with her two kids hoping to get autographs," Clark said with a chuckle.

Jerry Lewis is serious

Singer, dancer, comedian... Jerry Lewis, 25, of Wayne is none of these. "We're not even alike," he stated. And although he shares the name of a famous entertainment personality, he reluctantly accepts second-hand fame with surprising good nature.

Named after his father who was born in the hills of Virginia the younger Lewis was raised in Romulus. He has proven he has no resentment of his famous name by passing it on to his first-born daughter, Jeri.

"Not a day goes by someone doesn't comment about my name," he said. "When my dad was named 50 years ago, no one ever heard of actor Jerry Lewis. His parents always called him 'Bud.' With me, everybody asks, 'Where's Dean Martin?'"

Ironically, the local Lewis enjoys the old Jerry Lewis movies and has seen most of them, "but the ones with Dean Martin are the best. They make me laugh," he said.

For years, Lewis said, he used to dread the first day of school. "Finally in about 10th grade, my classmates got used to it and only out in public did people comment about it. With a name like Jerry Lewis, people always expected you to act goofy. I'm nothing like that. I'm a pretty serious guy.

Gloria Swanson doesn't act

Her married name is now Gloria Swanson but ironically she was named after another famous silent film star, Gloria Jean.

"I honestly don't really know either one. When I first saw Gloria Swanson in the movie, 'The Deadly Bees,' she was then in her 60s. I never even saw pictures of her as the sex goddess she was supposed to be," recalled Swanson while on a break from her job as custodian at Halecreek Elementary School in Romulus where she has worked for the past 10 years.

She has been Gloria Swanson ever since she married husband Ronald 18 years ago. They have three children and live in Romulus.

She recalled the first time she realized her name was that of a famous movie star. "I never knew there was another Gloria Swanson until I was first married and I opened a bank account. I didn't know who she was. I've never even seen a picture of her," she said.

Swanson said she has nothing in common with either famous movie star. "Both were blonds. To be honest, when I was young ger I think I was prettier. The name has always been a sore spot with my mother because my dad named me after this beautiful movie star, and she never quite got used to it," she added.

The Romulus Swanson enjoys arts, crafts and cooking. She and her husband will both receive their high school diplomas from the Romulus Adult Education this spring.

John Kennedy not political

A generation of Kennedys has lived in Michigan. In fact, John Kennedy is alive and well and living in the city of Inkster.

John Kennedy, a clerical operations manager for the department of radiology at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, said he wasn't the first in his family to receive the now famous name. "I was the third to be called John Kennedy. My father and his father before him were both named the same," he said.

The familiar name has attracted comments even when Kennedy was a child, before the former President came into the picture. The reason? Kennedy's initials are JCK.

According to Kennedy, the first two, JC, attracted attention. "I've heard all the jokes about Jesus Christ because of my initials JC," he said.

Later, when the political figure of John F. Kennedy was prevalent, the attraction to his name increased, he said.

"I was called 'Pres' a lot. I heard so many jokes about Kennedy."

Even in a time of crises, the

John Kennedy

Kennedy name still attracted attention, according to Kennedy. "After he (John F. Kennedy) was shot, people would come up to me and say, 'I thought you were shot,'" he remembers.

Kennedy, who drives to Ann Arbor every day from Inkster, is also the father of nine children.

Robert Wagner is local star

The name Robert Wagner may be fairly well known in some Hollywood circles, but in Westland, the name and the person entitled to it garner a wealth of local recognition.

Having the same name as a famous Hollywood star hasn't been a problem, according to Wagner, who is the director of the city of Westland Department on Aging.

"I think it's kind of a nice sounding name, in fact, I named my son after me," he said.

Although not a problem, the name has created some interesting situations, Wagner will admit.

"Every phone call I get or make, there always seems to be some statement made about my name."

To counter wisecracks of this sort, Wagner has devised a "prepared statement" for use when the name games begin.

"When I get introduced to someone and they ask me about my name, I tell them he (Robert Wagner) is my father, and he is currently out in Hollywood, and he is the one who gives out the autographs, not me."

Robert Wagner

Wagner, who became the Director of the Department on Aging about 15 months ago, has long been active in community affairs. He has served on the Westland City Council for 16 years.

And for now, Wagner will remain a star of the silver screen in Westland and keep his acting talents hidden until he receives his "big break."

Baby names are borrowed from the past

By MARK NICHOLAS
ANP Staff Writer

Susie. Mary. George. Bill. Bob. New parents in the 1980s each day must make a decision to choose from none of the above titles to name their new babies, but those decisions today aren't so different than the ones made some 20 years ago.

According to nurses working in local maternity wards, history is being relived in the hospitals as parents elect to reuse the popular names of days gone by. But that's not to say that a few new titles don't pop up here and there, as the nurses will be quick to explain.

Girls names seem to be changing more rapidly than boys, according to Margaret Huff, maternal and child health supervisor at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne.

"In general, male names are still more traditional than female names. Male names change more slowly than female ones," she said.

Female names are influenced more by television, Huff said. Programs in which one character becomes popular, tend to dictate female names, the name of the character becomes popular. For instance, she said, Dynasty or a soap opera with a popular character that has an unusual name will become popular among new births.

There is another interesting trend, according to Huff, that she has noticed.

"Popular names from long ago seem to be coming back. Also, female children are turning to more masculine or male names. A lot of female names are surnames of families and are not extremely feminine."

Annapolis Hospital nurses, who deliver anywhere from 70 to 100 babies a month, see many popular names pass through, according to Kathy Napotitano, a registered nurse.

"For boys, the name Ryan is popular right now. For girls, we've had a lot of Jessica and Katie, lately," she said.

Napotitano added that the name "John" is still a very popular name for boys. And, according to Julia Collins, another registered nurse, "Ashley,"

"Jeffrey" and "David" garner an equal amount of popularity.

Some people take longer than others to name their children, according to Collins.

"Some names we don't know by the time they leave the hospital. In fact, I had a cousin that was called 'No Name' for quite a while," she said.

While "No Name" is indeed an unusual name, there are others as well, according to Debbie Gonzolas, of the Westland Medical Center. Gonzolas cited Destiny, Misty, Spring, Precious, Summer, and Swanie as just a few examples.

The method for choosing a child's name varies among parents, she continued. Some parents think long and hard, studying name books and talking things over with one another. Other parents only think of a name after the baby has been born, a sort of spur of the moment decision, Collins said.

Denise Mason, surprised when she delivered twins, was just one of the "spur of the moment" name choosers.

"We really didn't think about the names, we just came up with them. It was kind of a last-moment thing," she said.

The babies were born Sunday, March 22 and had no names until after they were born. Finally, Mason decided on a couple of old standbys - Carrie and Katie.

Luke Skywalker changed name

Luke Skywalker has come down from the galactic big screen of "Star Wars" and landed in Canton Township.

In his Earth form he is not a Jedi warrior, but he is still involved in frequent battles. He works as an assistant attorney in the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office.

Skywalker, 33, was called Stephen Peters a decade ago. That is until Peters went to see the 1977 science fiction hit, "Star Wars."

"I changed my name because I liked the movie," the Canton resident said. "(The name) stood for doing what you believe in, regardless."

Yes...but there have been other movie characters who have stood for the same thing and their names are not nearly as conspicuous. Why the name "Skywalker?" Skywalker was asked.

"I don't know," he said. "That character just appealed to me."

His family objected, the attorney admitted, but he took the legal action anyway. After all, the whole point was to identify with a character that does what he believes in.

"Put it down to law school," Skywalker said, explaining his appellation. "The last year at law school does weird things to you."

On the whole, he said, his name does not "cause much of a stir."

Defense attorneys who appear in court with him are used to it.

"I probably know three, four, 500 defense attorneys...and it never comes up as a problem. No one ever says, 'Ha. Ha. Look at him. He must be goofy,'" Skywalker said.

As for jurors and courtroom spectators... "People who come to court are more concerned with what's happening to their friends or enemies," he said.

'Bob Hope' breaks the ice

Bob Hope is making daily appearances at the Canton Soccerdome and softball field facility on Michigan Avenue.

Clarification: this Bob Hope is a 30-year-old manager at the facility; not the elderly and world-renowned entertainer.

Robert Ricardo Hope has his father to thank for the famous name. He is not Bob Hope, Jr. though because his father has a different middle name.

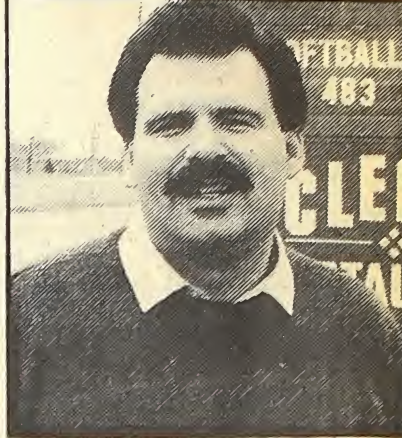

Growing up in Detroit with the name helped make him an easy-to-get-along-with guy, Hope said.

"When I was younger, I generally played with the guys who were up a couple of years," he said. "They had the (baseball) diamond so I had to fit in with them."

The name has always proved useful as an icebreaker.

As he got older, reaction to the name changed, he said.

"When I was little it was just a laugh...as I got older people would say, 'You sure you're not Bing Crosby.'"

During the course of an average day, Hope hears about a dozen comments about his name. After all, he comes in contact with a lot of people at the athletic facility.

"I just say, 'Yeah, Bob Hope. Same name, no money,'" he said, explaining how he deals with the comments.

Townsend-Green to exchange wedding vows

Linda Renee Townsend will become the bride of Paul Mark Anthony Green at an early afternoon ceremony April 11 at the Greater Bethlehem Temple of Inkster.

More than 500 guests are expected to witness the double-ring ceremony at which District Elder Wilson Roberts will officiate. Four local singers will provide music for the guests accompanied by John Roberts at the organ. The bride hand made the floral arrangements for the service consisting of roses, carnations and gladioli.

For her wedding, the bride chose a white satin and lace gown with a long train. Her veil will be held in place by a sequined pearl wreath.

Nancy Tilton of Inkster will perform the duties of maid of honor at the wedding while Yvonne Harris of Detroit will be the matron of honor at the service. Bridesmaids at the ceremony include Bertina Girty of Southfield, Barbie George and Andrea Rose, both of Inkster and Levenia Sprah of Detroit.

All the bridal attendants will be gowned in satin and lace dresses in a powder-blue shade. They will carry fan bouquets made by the bride.

Three flower girls and a ring bearer precede the bride, who will be escorted by her father, down the aisle. All are nieces or a nephew of the family of the couple.

Ronald Walker will act as best man at the wedding. Ushers at the service include Cecil Coston, Eric and Derrick Davis, Gregg Cooper. There will be five groomsmen and four hostesses included in the wedding party.

The mother of the bride chose a blue chiffon and satin gown with a blue satin head piece. The mother of the groom will be gowned in a light blue chiffon and satin dress.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. London Townsend of Meadowdale in Inkster. The groom is the son of Marie Massey, also of Meadowdale.

Following the exchange of their wedding vows, the couple will be honored at a reception in the church hall. The bride also made the decorations for the reception.

Sharon Katona will receive a front-end alignment as the winner of the pothole contest.

Best of the worst

Pothole contest winners get into 'alignment'

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Last weekend our staff bounced, bumped and rattled along area roads to judge the entries in the Chuckhole Derby Contest. During our travels from Sumpter Township to Westland and through Inkster, Canton, Romulus and Wayne, we discovered many potholes which would have been worthy of nomination but were not submitted by our contestants. Judging, of course, was based only on those potholes nominated by our readers.

Heading the list was the corner of Middlebelt and Ecorse Road which was described by Sharon Katona of Brandt Street in Romulus as a "chuckhill not a chuckhole."

"Everytime I turn left at the light I need a front-end alignment," she wrote. Katona also nominated Ecorse Road just east of Brandt Street as a close runner-up.

Katona, as our first-prize winner, will receive a free front-end alignment from Automotive Tire & Service, Inc., 32640 Michigan Ave., Wayne.

"Sometimes, I am afraid my tires may burst or my muffler may fall off. That's terrible, especially if you are going 45 or 50 m.p.h."

"Try to turn right off of East Michigan Avenue onto Winifred," wrote Michael Racklyert of Eastlawn Street in Wayne. "Can you miss it? If you're good and there are no cars on Winifred, you can make a wide turn and avoid it. It's been there for two years and still no signs of it disappearing."

"Watch it," Racklyert warned. "It will get you every time."

Darletta Cheeks of Oakville-Waltz Road in Carleton named Willis Road as "the worst of them all."

"Sometimes," Cheeks wrote, "I am afraid my tires may burst or my muffler may fall off. That's terrible, especially if you are going 45 or 50 m.p.h."

She also named Oakville-Waltz Road as "the second worst" for chuckholes.

Our staff found the corner of Sumpter Road and Willis to be a mass of potholes, dips and bumps, but travelling toward Rawsonville Road, the pavement on Willis Road smoothed out.

Racklyert, the second-place winner, will receive oil, lube and filter valued at $16.95 from Chuck Ray at Automotive Tire. Cheeks will receive the third-place award of a $10 gift certificate for automotive merchandise.

Although the nomination of Mrs. Leo Krzyzaniak of Inkster did not make the top three, the corner of South Wayne and Beverly Road in Wayne did merit a mention for its potholes and rough surface.

The relatively mild winter experienced in this area helped to keep the number of chuckholes to a minimum. Also, with mild temperatures and a minimum amount of snowfall, Department of Public Works employees have been able to make ongoing repairs on the streets.

Local psychic gazes into April horoscope

AIRES (March 21 - April 20) Opportunities for a stronger independence are available this month. Relationships will be adjusted to a more balanced share of responsibility. There are opportunities for a new job or promotion toward the end of the month and major changes coming up in the next couple of months.

happen (no matter how you try to help). Without growth there is only stagnation.

TAURUS (April 21 - May 21) Your work may be in conflict with relationship issues. Don't challenge authorities at this time, or you may get some unpleasant surprises. Expect a new understanding view of life to occur. Your belief system is changing a lot! A new idea for an income source can open up for you financially.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21) Ending of a shallow relationship is best. It isn't improving, and it isn't going to deepen. Be careful of plans made in secret. It could be a mistake. Think through the likely consequences thoroughly, without kidding yourself. Too much action without thought can cause you to hurt yourself in some way.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23) Thinking of moving? This can be the last remnant of the past yet to be closed down. Focus on career and new directions. Pry your fingers off the pain from the past. Set new goals and aspirations. Your work is changing drastically.

LEO (July 24 - August 23) Saying goodbye to someone close may be a surprise around the full moon. This can make you rethink your plans for the future and your career as well. Don't let the words of others push old hurt buttons. Recognize the deliberate intentions to manipulate behind those words.

VIRGO (August 24 - September 23) You may be re-thinking a financial connection you have with another. This time it isn't the principal of the thing - it's the money. Be cautious about taking legal actions, and make sure it makes financial sense to do that. You may be reconsidering a residential move.

LIBRA (September 24 - October 23) Recognizing the necessary changes in a growing relationship, you see what direction suffocates you. A fearful, emotionally-crippled person has to want healing and seek it out on their own, or it won't SCORPIO (October 24 - November 22) Be careful of your fears and suspicions because you could be so very wrong! If you act on these fears, you could be very destructive, only to regret it for a long time to come. If you look at your past pattern and what you have learned, you aren't as likely to repeat past mistakes. Don't let emotions rule now, or it doesn't work.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 - December 21) You may run into someone from your past, or someone who reminds you of the past. It's a totally different view of it now. You'll see how far you've come. You don't react the way you used to, and your self-esteem comes up as a result. Work can offer a lucrative opportunity that shouldn't be avoided. Prosperity is knocking. Are you home?

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 20) You may recognize the built-in limits in your career choices. This month you may decide to change those choices to open up new growth areas for you. And, remember if you aren't having fun all day and getting paid for it, you haven't found your true direction yet. But, if you cut off your nose to spite someone else, you'll learn about that too.

AQUARIUS (January 21 - February 19) The old belief system you clung to so tenaciously may not be working for you at all anymore. You may need to establish your own security instead of relying on anyone else. You may find yourself releasing an old idea or philosophy. Legal matter should be settled this month.

PISCES (February 20 - March 20) Anyone who is trying to help you spend your money will be taken out of your budget this month. And, that's good! This is the month for creative projects, especially writing, communications of all kinds and advertising. You can make money with those areas this month. Listen to friends who encourage that clever idea.

What happened to spring?

Weatherman may throw snowballs in Belleville opener

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Although you wouldn't believe it by the weather outside, the 1987 high school baseball season is supposed to open on Friday.

That's when Belleville takes on Trenton and, yes, the Tigers are starting right off with a Wolverine 'A' Conference opener.

However, whether that opener gets off as scheduled, obviously will depend on Mother Nature, whose cruel joke Sunday evening led to an early spring snow storm. More of the white stuff is expected later in the week.

Coach John Bertz is eager to start his second season at the helm of the Belleville baseball machine, a machine that produced seven victories in 20 trips to the diamonds last year. Bertz was busy last weekend painting and repairing the high school dugouts in anticipation of the season.

Bertz has had his players, (would you believe?) on the outside turf for the past three weeks. He's satisfied with the team's progress, didn't expect the weatherman to intervene as he did.

"After the mild winter this (the snow) has caught us by surprise," Bertz said. "But, I guess, when you reside in Michigan you got to expect these things."

Bertz is expecting a tough conference title chase this year and predicts defending champ, Monroe, and Wayne Memorial, will figure prominently in the race. He stressed that in order for the Tigers to become contenders, "a lot of things will have to fall into place."

And pitching has to come around...something that didn't materialize a year ago.

Steve Ostrowski, a right-handed senior, will be returning to the mound and Bertz is counting on him to lead the pitching corps. "Steve has the potential to be good," Bertz note, "and, so far, he's our number one thrower."

Mike Sawinski, Steve O'Harris and Bill Ashley are also seeking spots in the pitching rotation. Sawinski, a junior, is a right-hander who is being groomed as the number two hurler. Relievers a year ago, O'Harris, a senior southpaw, and Ashley, a junior, are solid contenders for mound duties.

Back in town is Rick Shreckengost, a senior, who left Belleville with his family two years ago to reside in Georgia. A 6-3, lanky athlete, Shreckengost has a curve ball that commands attention and "his breaking pitches are among the best I've seen," said Bertz.

Tiger fans should also see a lot of John Richards on the mound during the 1987 campaign.

Bertz admits that the pitching corps appears to be among the best in recent years, "but it remains untested, and time and pressure will tell if they can stand the test."

Bertz has switched all-conference centerfielder Pat Ringwelski from the outfield to behind the plate to handle the catching chores. He also has Blaine Armstrong, a junior, working out in that position. Of course, when Ringwelski isn't

Romulus looking at a tough schedule

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Although they are not scheduled to officially enter the South Central Baseball Conference until next year, Coach Dennis Stoh and the Romulus Eagles will play their future conference opponents this season.

"There is no doubt we have a very tough schedule. . .and we are going to have to improve quickly in order to keep our heads above water. This will be a very challenging season."

— Dennis Stoh

their ace pitcher, Tony Yandura who graduated last June and is presently playing for Saginaw Valley. Also missing from the lineup is the strong bat of Dave Bergman who also graduated and is on the freshman team at Central Michigan University.

But definitely on the plus side is the return of right-hander Keith Brothers who could develop into the Eagles number one thrower this year.

"Keith is looking good," said Stoh who has had his players practicing out-of-doors for the past three weeks, but was forced indoors by Monday's unexpected return to winter.

A name that Romulus baseball fans should be hearing and reading a lot about this season is that of Steve Hoinka who was the number one hurler last year on the junior varsity club. Hoinka has the credentials to help this year's team become a winner and the big junior right-hander, a 6-3 ball player may just have the right stuff.

Three other impressive players are southpaw Jim Kusibab who is the co-captain of the team; Steve Malgay, senior, who played with last season's Taylor American Legion club which made it to the state finals and to the nationals and Brian Newcomb, also a senior whose skills are an asset to this team.

Stoh is looking at Mike Laymon and Dean Raley as relievers.

"We have a young pitching staff," Stoh pointed out, "and because of that we have cut back on the number of doubleheaders we are going to play this year."

Stoh said that although he personally favors playing twin bills, "they take their toll on our pitching staff, therefore, we decided not to play that many this year."

Romulus will bring the curtains up on the 1987 season Tuesday at home against Taylor Kennedy. Stoh said that Kennedy traditionally fields a strong team and has no reason to believe this year's club is an exception.

But back to the lineup.

Look for Newcomb to be in center field rather than his usual right and Brothers, when not on the mound, will be at third. Stoh also is looking at Lenny Barr, a junior, to replace the graduated Bobby Stratton behind the plate while the infield finds Joe Schuster and Hoinka battling it out for the third place slot, and Malgay, an excellent college prospect, handling the short stop slot. Dean Raley is at second.

The Eagle coach believes Jim Kusibab, a first baseman, is probably his strongest position.

"Pitching is so important to a high school team and if our kids come around, then I feel we will do all right," Stoh said. "I believe we have the makings of a solid team."

'Street-wise'

One of the big reasons for Romulus High's cage success this season was the overall performance of senior Juan Street (above). Street and his sharpshooting teammate, Billy Johnson, have earned post-season honors. Both were named to the The Associated Newspapers' All-Area Team. See Special Section. 12 prep players are honored as 'best in basketball'

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

They came from Belleville, Romulus, Wayne and Westland. There were also some from Plymouth Salem, Canton and Inkster. Some were nervous; others aggressive and a few even addressed the interviewers with a "Yes, sir; no, sir."

They were kids - but their bodies magnificently trained in athletics. They are basketball players, among the finest players in the State of Michigan this year.

The names of Kris Grantham, Steve Hawley, Andy Grazulis, Billy Johnson, Mike Hale, Bryan Kearis, Andre Davis, Darryl Green, Roger Trice, Mark Robinson, Juan Street and Mark Claiborn have appeared many times on these pages during the course of the 1986-87 high school basketball campaign. Their names have appeared on the sports pages of the metropolitan dailies. Colleges and universities across the nation will be the recipients of their superlative play next season.

The 12 prep eagers assembled at Wayne Memorial last week for the official photo session.

And, to "kill time" until the photographer showed up, Wayne Memorial Athletic Director Bill Hawley tossed out a basketball. Suddenly the world changed for these youngsters. The shy and the reserved became the aggressors of the hardwood. And, as they displayed the talent that earned them recognition throughout the year, they showed why they were "the chosen." One coach was heard to say, "My, God, give this team to any coach and he would rip Southwestern to shreds." (At the time Southwestern (Detroit) was the overwhelming favorite to capture the 1987 state championship). Unfortunately for the Prospectors they ran up against a rejuvenated Detroit Cooley (whom Southwestern had defeated twice during the season). The previously undefeated PSL champ lost in the state finals.

The 1987 Associated Newspapers' High School All-Area Basketball Team is loaded with senior talent. All of the candidates, with the exception of Trice, a junior from Canton, have several colleges interested in them. They have rewritten the record books at their respective high schools.

And would you believe that all, even Grantham, a diminutive 5 feet, 8 inch guard, can

"dunk" the ball?

Unfortunately, they are leaving the scene just when the Michigan High School Athletic Association - the august body that oversees high school sports in the state - has agreed to install the 3-point basket for the 1987-88 year.

Just think what players like Grantham, Hawley, Johnson, Kearis, Green, Trice, Robinson, Davis, Claiborn would have done if the 3-pointer had been approved a year ago.

A seller's market

Housing scene booms as interest rates plunge

By MARK NICHOLAS
ANP Staff Writer

In the supply and demand scene for the local housing industry, the current homeowner has the edge, area real estate developers report.

According to Bill Barrett, senior vice president for Real Estate One, the current low interest rates are the impetus for the trend in home sales.

"Interest rates, at this time, are the lowest in nine years for most lending institutions," Barrett said. "Some lending institutions haven't seen rates this low in over 15 years."

February house sales skyrocketed some 25 percent, Barrett said, compared to the same period last year. The housing market throughout the metro Detroit area is booming, he continued, and the western Wayne County area could be termed no exception.

And with any increase in demand comes an increase in prices. The local housing market is no exception, according to real estate experts.

Bill Cook, of Century 21 Associates, reported that 1986 home prices were up about 26 percent as compared to the home values in 1979. Last year, the average home buyer could obtain the average house in Westland for about $49,426, while that same home would have sold for $41,264 in 1979.

Likewise, Cook said, the average home in Wayne sells for about $40,000, in Romulus $46,187, in Belleville $71,716, in Canton $89,403 and in Inkster $20,000.

What's behind the buying boom? According to Barrett, interest rates - and the decline in them - must be considered as the major element contributing to rising home sales. However, Mother Nature has also shared an almost equal role.

Barrett said the low interest rates of early 1986, took everyone by surprise. According to the local real estate official, few analysts would have predicted interest rates in the 8-percent range just five years ago.

New-home construction isn't an unusual sight in the area these days as skyrocketing house sales put the market in a "demand state."

"There's no question that the record low interest rates are encouraging buyers to look for that dream home now, while they can better afford to purchase a home they might not be qualified for under higher interest rates. In addition, the unseasonably mild winter has also had an effect on our business. More people are out looking at homes when the weather is agreeable," Barrett explained.

"Now is the time to ask more for your house than you normally would. With the increased demand for houses, the price can go up. People who were getting $48,000 for their three bedroom ranch house, with a basement, are now getting $53,000 or $54,000 for the same house," he said.

The housing boom won't last forever, however, and Mills recommends that immediate attention be given to the current trend in order to garner the maximum financial benefits from it.

"Who knows how long the market will remain like this? Right now it's stable, but there is no crystal ball in this business. Now is the time to ask the highest price for your house. A house is worth what a buyer will pay for it - right now buyers are willing to pay more."

Tax time brings digestive woes

April 15 is just around the corner, and local taxpayers are making themselves susceptible for digestive troubles.

"Trying to figure out the new tax code will certainly be a source of stress for many people this year," said Dr. David James, noted gastroenterologist, "and stress is a major cause of heartburn and other forms of indigestion."

For the 75 million Americans who suffer from stress and related problems, James recommends a few precautions in the lifestyle, especially at tax time.

- Avoid fast foods and foods eaten quickly;
- Don't lie down after eating;
- Stop or cut down on smoking;
- Don't wear clothes that fit too tightly around the waist;
- Reduce if you are overweight;
- Avoid greasy and spicy foods; and

- Sleep with the head of the bed elevated about six inches.

Now, about that tax return...

Commute to UM-Dearborn and save thousands of dollars

A quality education doesn't have to be expensive

At nationally prominent private institutions, the cost of earning a four-year degree, including room and board, can exceed $12,000 a year.

At comparable public residential campuses in Michigan, the cost for one year of college averages $6,000.

The University of Michigan-Dearborn's total costs, including tuition, fees, transportation, and books, are $3,500 a year.

Students can commute to UM-D, take advantage of high academic standards, and still participate in the numerous cultural, intellectual, athletic, and recreational opportunities on campus, in the metropolitan area, and at U-M Ann Arbor.

Money saved by living at home can provide the resources to pay for these enriching opportunities. These savings can also make the next step to graduate or professional study a lot easier.

To learn more about UM-D, call for a prospectus and an appointment for a confidential admissions evaluation.

Storytime shopping

Readers, characters invade local mall

By MARK NICHOLAS
ANP Staff Writer

Shoppers at the Westland Mall may have run into some extremely suspicious looking characters during their shopping visits last Saturday.

The characters on hand included The Cat in the Hat, Clifford the Big Red Dog, Curious George and the Easter bunny, to name just a few. These and other characters were on hand as part of the third annual "Reading in the Mall" program, sponsored by the Wayne County Intermediate School District.

The program was one of a number of activities planned to celebrate March as "reading month" in Michigan schools and to promote the importance of reading.

According to Susan Krupa, organizer of the event and also a second-grade teacher in the Crestwood School District, there were many interesting things to see.

"We had a lady, Merrill Linton, that taught herself to be a ventriloquist through the use of books."

The Wayne Civitans, many of whom are Wayne-Westland school teachers, were also on hand to stress the importance of reading to the children. In addition, a group of junior civitans had a part to play in the event, Krupa said, by manning booths where the children could go and write stories to characters after hearing the story read to them.

According to Krupa, there was a surprise, unscheduled guest, that made an appearance at the show.

"Gerald McDermott, a famous children's author, was at the mall. He was in town visiting his mother and agreed to come up on stage and read to the children. I was so excited, he just happened to be there and agreed to read to the kids," Krupa said.

McDermott, who authored the book Arrow to the Sun, now lives in Connecticut, where he is currently working on another book.

In addition to the various characters and celebrities at the show, computer display booths were featured, as were booths to offer reading ideas to teachers and parents.

And, the program was extra special to students in the Wayne-Westland, Van Buren and Plymouth-Canton school districts in that students who had earlier won a district-sponsored book contest were able to perform on stage. According to Krupa, the program overall was a huge success.

"It was the most wonderful thing. I asked people to donate books to give to the children, and all these people came through. We had hundreds of books to give to the children, some kids received two books," Krupa said. "It was better than ever before. I started crying when I saw all the books coming in. All these people came through, it was wonderful."

Teens get traveling reward

Members of the Michigan Elite Teens of Wayne were rewarded for a job well done last month with a trip to sunny Florida.

The group members traveled to Disney World, the Kennedy Space Center, Wet and Wild World, CoCoa beach and St. Augustine while in Florida. The teens also "roughed" it out by staying at a campground near Orlando.

Among the teens participating in the event were Scott Macuga, Ed Elliot, Diane Sargent, Beatrice Cilley, Angel Luper, Ron Longton, Julie Elliot, Tammy Losey, Randy Repp, Stacy Kader and Vickie Howe. The teens were chaperoned by Karen Macuga, Robert Bozin and Jeff Single.

The teens are planning more trips this summer, including traveling to Cedar Point, Mackinaw Island and Boblo.

Hale is high-scorer

Mike Hale

Considered one of the most versatile players on the Plymouth Salem club, Hale has been a varsity performer for the past three years. He scored 444 points, averaging 18 points per game in his senior year. The 6-6 center-forward also snared 311 rebounds.

"Mike has been the workhorse of this team," noted Salem Coach Bob Brodie. "He can do just about everything. Score from the inside and also possesses a good perimeter shot."

Obviously Hale played a major role in the Rocks' 22-3 overall season which included the Western Lakes Activities Conference championship along with the Class A district crown. The 22-3 record tied the mark set during the 1974-75 season during the Fred Thomann coaching era.

Hale also has several college offers but appears to be nudging toward remaining in the state.

Kearis is tough guard

Bryan Kearis

Sharp-eyed senior guard Kearis made the Rocks click. His playmaking ability and quickness gave Salem an opportunity to become a dimensional team. When the opposition put up a zone, Bryan's quickness usually tore it apart. He was also the key to breaking a full-court press. Kearis is an excellent shot.

"Kearis is the best pure guard I have ever seen," said Coach Brodie. "His quickness and ball handling were assets that made our team what it was." Bryan contributed 12 points and eight assists per game (he finished with 158 assists - a school record). A member of the all-conference team, Kearis also has been playing varsity for the past three years.

Grantham: Tremendous

Kris Grantham

From a family of outstanding athletes, Grantham was the driving force behind Belleville's bid for a Wolverine 'A' Conference basketball championship. Coach Leon Birdyshaw's Tigers were in the thick of the title race when Grantham was the only team to mar the conference record of Wayne Memorial, the season champ. His overall performance earned him recognition as the Wolverine 'A' Conference's co-Most Valuable Player, sharing the accolades with Wayne Memorial's Mark Robinson.

"He's a tremendous athlete," said Belleville Coach Leon Birdyshaw. "He made this team what it was. And, believe me, we are going to miss him around here next year."

Davis, Brodie ahead of the rest

Flip a coin to determine the "Coach of the Year?"
No way.

Although Westland John Glenn's Gordie Davis and Plymouth Salem's Bob Brodie had about identical records and accomplishments during the 1986-87 high school basketball campaign, The Associated Newspapers' sports staff decided against flipping a coin to settle the "tie."

Both outstanding coaches deserve the recognition and the honors.

If you recall, the nefarious flip was used to determine which of the teams - Glenn or Salem - would be awarded the Western Lakes Lake Division championship, and Salem won the toss and was awarded the division title. The Rocks went on to claim the conference championship.

Both teams had finished the regular conference season with identical records.

The combined record of the two teams - Glenn and Salem - this season was a sensational 43-6.

Brodie, who got his first coaching experience watching his dad, Joe, coach at Lincoln Park, played his high school basketball at Flat Rock. In his senior year, Flat Rock chalked up a 21-1 record and was ranked No. 1 in the state...until they were defeated in the Class B regional finals.

Brodie has brought his winning tradition to Salem, to carry on an outstanding tradition established by former Rock Coach, Fred Thomann, whose team also reached the Class A state semifinals before losing in 1979.

Brodie believes that his team's 22-3 record during this recently concluded campaign came about because the players "played as one - unselfishly."

"Togetherness marked this team" Brodie said. "They're real good friends both on and off the court. They really like each other."

The hallmark of Brodie's 1986-87 squad reflects his own personal philosophy of getting the kids to grow as people as well as players, and to learn social skills as well as the game of basketball."

In his three years of coaching at Salem, Brodie feels this is the best team he has placed on the court.

"Kids like Bryan Kearis, who I've coached for four years, have made it special. On top of that, to achieve goals you set at the beginning of the season, make it special."

Brodie, who coached under one of the most successful high school coaches in Michigan history, Lofton Green, at River Rouge, also had coaching stints at Grosse Ile before moving over to take over the helm of the Rocks at Salem. He teaches business at Salem and has been a faculty member in the Plymouth Canton Community School District for the past 10 years.

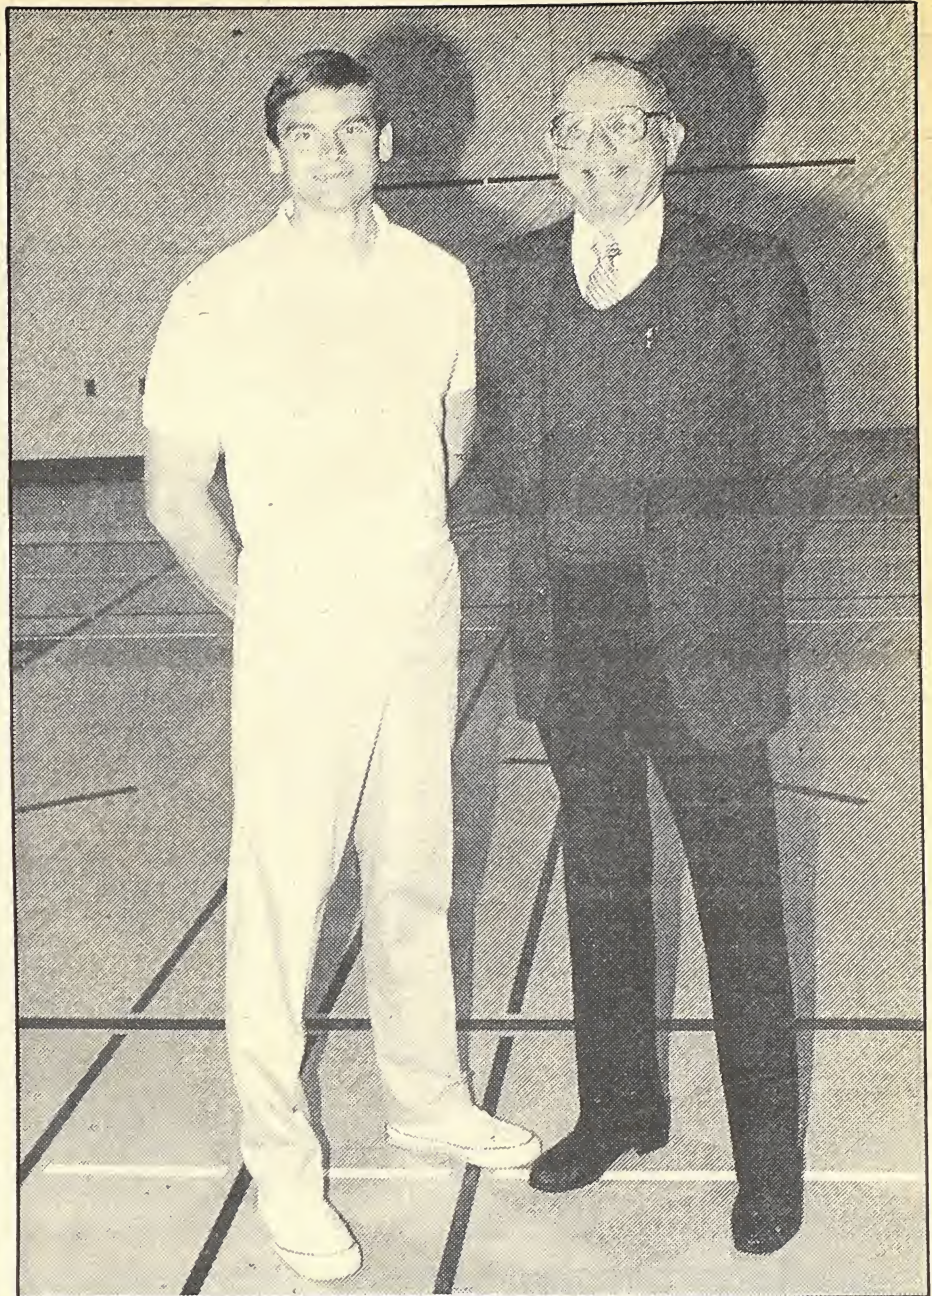

In a season that saw few Glenn losses, the Rockets' biggest loss of the 1986-87 campaign may have come after the curtains came down with the announcement that veteran Coach Gordie Davis will not be returning next year as head coach.

Winning has been a tradition during the Davis era. And, anyone who tries to replace Davis will have a tough act to follow.

The Rockets' 21-3 record this year established a new high for won-losses.

"Obviously, basketball is the ultimate team game," said Davis. "Try to get the team to play like a team and to hit the open man, not just to rely on one player," said the 57-year-old coach in explaining his theory.

When one looks back on Davis's 15 years as coach, that team approach can be seen in every season and in every game - the first Northwest Suburban League championship in 1972-73, the teams of the mid-70's with players such as Brian Kaluzny, Harry Polovino, and Jeff Brittain, and the Daran Armstrong era which produced three consecutive Northwest Suburban championships.

Bob Brodie and Gordie Davis

Memories, yes, as Davis closes the scoreboard on a coaching career that saw his teams amass 213 victories. If it is a coach's dream to go out on top, Davis achieved this with his last team.

"They were team-oriented and probably played as good defense as any team I've ever had," said Davis. They hustled and we were blessed with team leaders in our seniors."

This year's Rockets posted a record-shattering 21-3 record and claimed their first Class A district championship since 1981.

Davis, whose coaching career began at Old West Junior High, has taught in the Wayne-Westland school district since 1955 and has been at Glenn since it opened in 1964 as a physical education teacher. He will continue his teaching career, although he is stepping down as coach.

Teamwork, teaching young men about the game of life as well as about the game of basketball, and dedication are the elements of which Brodie and Davis are made and these are only a few reasons why the two outstanding coaches have been selected as The Associated Newspapers' "Coaches of the Year."

Robinson: Most valuable

During the three years Robinson has been a member of Coach Chuck Henry's varsity club, the Zebras have captured three consecutive conference championships. They have also racked up a phenomenal 57-10 won-lost record.

Robinson has been selected the conference's most valuable for the past two years and obviously also has been the coaches' unanimous choice to the team. "He has great attitude and is one of the most coachable and hardest workers I have ever had the honor to coach," said Coach Chuck Henry.

Robinson has scored over 1000 points during his three-year varsity career and averaged 20.3 points per games this year, a year that the club went 18-5. He also averaged eight rebounds and four assists.

Mark Robinson

Claiborn is high jumper

At 6-2, Claiborn was Wayne's biggest player. And he played the role. Mark's outstanding jumping ability and soft shooting touch provided the conference champs with the assets they needed to turn back those that would challenge them for the title.

"Mark is an excellent athlete," noted Henry. "And I believe that his best years are ahead of him. He's going to go to a community college to develop and then go on to a college. Believe me, you're going to hear a lot more from him."

Mark Claiborn

Hawley: 2nd best

When the going got tough for Glenn, Hawley moved in to lift the Rockets over the rough spots. His 1085 career points is the second best in the school's history. Former Glenn cage great Daran Armstrong who has 1105 career points holds the record.

"Steve is the best outside shooter we had," said Glenn Coach Gordie Davis, "and he is intensively competitive. He was best in our big games, in fact, against Chadsey (Detroit) he scored 16 points in the final quarter."

Hawley's at-the-buzzer 40-footer tied the game, however, his performance was to be his last in a Glenn jersey as the Rockets lost in a double overtime. Steve has several colleges that would like him to sign letters of intent among them are Eastern Michigan University, Kent State and Grand Valley. He also was named as the all-area quarterback after leading the Rockets to the state semifinals. Named to a score of all-area and suburban cage teams, Hawley should find his name on an all-state list when the teams are revealed later this week.

Grazulis: Dominates

Awarded varsity status late in the season in his sophomore year, Grazulis has been a dominating force on the Rocket cage team ever since. Andy contributed 17 points per game and 13 rebounds - his biggest night was a 26-point effort and 19 rebounds in the district championship game against Livonia Churchill.

"Andy was typical of the breed of kids we had on this year's team," said Westland John Glenn Coach Gordie Davis. "A fine example of a human being. A person you just loved to coach. He's the type of player every coach wants for his team."

Trice: Outstanding

Assigned the dubious honor of guarding the opponents' top scorers each game, the Canton junior is the only underclassman to break into the senior-dominated All-Area lineup.

"He is an outstanding defensive ball player," said Canton Coach Tom Niemi. "Rog also knew where to be at the right time because he was our team's leading rebounder."

Trice and the Chiefs won their divisional title. He also was voted as Canton's Most Valuable Player.

Johnson: Key cager

The key to the Romulus High cage machine, Johnson ignited the Eagles throughout most of the season, leading them to the Class A district championship and scoring 38-points against Ann Arbor Pioneer in the semifinal round of the Class A regional playoffs at Eastern Michigan University.

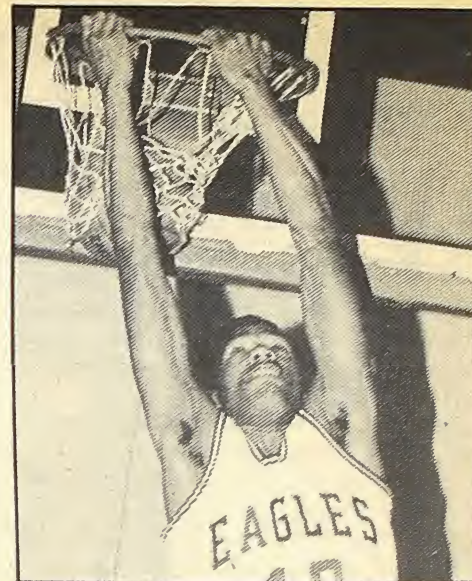

"Billy is just one great ball player," noted Romulus Coach Dan Henry. "Hardworking and a leader, our opponents knew they had to stop him to stop us."

And few managed to do that. Johnson finished the season with remarkable 27.3 point scoring average, and accounted for nine rebounds and six assists per game. He has received all-state recognition and also several college offers including offers from the University of Detroit and Bowling Green.

As a junior, Johnson was a member of the Romulus team (led by All-American Terry Mills) that captured the state championship a year ago.

Street 'filled void'

Like Johnson, the 6-6 Street also was a starter on last year's state championship team. This year Juan had to fill a void created by Mills's graduation. He did a commendable job.

"Juan is a great perimeter shooter and a very unselfish player," said Henry. "He could have scored even more than he did, but he chose to pass off to the open man."

Street, whose father was also an outstanding player for Romulus in the early 1960's, averaged 20.4 points per game, was the Eagles' leading rebounder with 12.7 per game. "Billy and Juan were our most experienced players and the others looked up to them for leadership."

Davis is versatile

A much sought-after cager by blue-chip universities and colleges, the 6-5 Davis is considered one of the most versatile players ever to wear an Inkster cage uniform. And when you consider that Inkster and Coach George Thompson Jr. has had a host of excellent players over the years, that's saying quite a lot.

Davis finished his senior year with a 24.2 per game scoring average and also collected 12 rebounds, four assists and two blocked shots per game. He shot 58 percent from the floor and made 78 percent of his free throws. During the last three years while Davis has been in the Viking lineup, Inkster has won 60 of their 70 games. He has offers from all of the Mid-American

Andre Davis

Athletic Conference schools as well as form Bradley, Louisiana State, San Diego State and others.

"Andre is the best all-around player I have ever coached," Thompson said. "He can play every position - point guard, center or forward equally well. And that is one of the reasons why he was so valuable to us."

Andre Davis

Darryl Green

Green's colors show

A two-year member of the Viking varsity, Green is one of the best penetrating guards around. Fast and deceptive, he moved with sureness through the defensive maze and accounted for 13.5 points per game and 11.2 assists.

"A very aggressive type player - he made us run," said Thompson.

Darryl Green

Both Davis and Green were unanimous all-conference selections in the tough Suburban Athletic Conference.
